SCHAEFER'S GOOD AVERAGE

"Wille" Hoppe Beat Barutel in Their Handicap Eighteen-Inch Balk Line Match.

The eighteen-inch balk line handicap billiard match between "Wille" Hoppe, the juvenile expert, and Barutel, the French expert of the game, was completed last night at Maurice Daly's Academy, Hoppe winning by a score of 750 to 912. Barutel to win had to score 1,100 points. Hoppe had the advantage at the start of play last night, and this seemed to steady him, as he was able to complete his string with 275 points, scored in thirty-three innings, for an average of 8 11-33. At the start of the contest Barutel played weakly. Several fair runs—one of 65—bolstered up his total, and he had 324 points when Hoppe concluded the match with a run of 6. The score:

Hoppe—2 11 3 7 8 0 0 3 1 7 1 34 7 0 1 1 7 55 1 6

In the afternoon contest he averaged 13 11-23 on 300 points, with a high run of 57. The scores:

Slosson set out to beat Schaefer's high run of 144, made in his recent practice, at eighteen-inch balk line, but the best he could do was 125, which is his best practice run this season. J. Byson Stark, a prominent amateur, contested the game with Slosson at Slosson's Academy, and made the good average of 9 5-16. Slosson's average was 18 12-16. The score:

Slosson—1 9 4 0 0 18 13 1 3 20 125 3 59 23 10.

WOMAN JUMPED INTO RIVER.

She Was Rescued and Taken to the Hospital, Where She Is Now a Prisoner.

With apparently everything to live for, Mrs. Una H. Perry, twenty-eight years old, living with her husband, George H. Perry, and her mother in the Navarre apartment house at 244 West Ninety-ninth Street, and with a little son, to whom she appeared to be devoted, tried to end her life in the North River at One Hundred and Tenth Street yesterday.

McDonald's bathing pavilion is at this point, and there are launches connected with that resort which are laid up on a pier two blocks south. Capt. Trenfini has charge of the boats in the Summer and was working on them at the time the woman made her plunge, soon after 11 A. M. Before yesterday he had six rescues from the river to his credit. Mrs. McDonald saw the woman walking up and down the wharf, but paid no attention to her until her two little boys, who were playing outside, saw her jump and raised an outcry. She ran out of doors and joined her screams to theirs, and Trenfini came running up the New York Central Railroad tracks.

It was just about the turn of the flood tide, and the water was slack, so the woman drifted slowly. Trenfini, clad as he was, dove in without a moment's hesitation, and seized her after a short swim. She struggled desperately in the water, and he did not get her ashore until she was thoroughly exhausted though still conscious. He took her inside where it was warm and she began to rave. A policeman was called and made her a prisoner, and Dr. Hanscom came with an ambulance from the J. Hood Wright Hospital and took her to that institution.

Part of her rambling talk was of business troubles that had befallen her husband, who has an advertising agency at 481 Fifth Avenue. At first this was taken to be the cause of her act, and her mother corroborated it at an early visit to the house. The family recently came from St. Louis, it was said. The woman's husband went to the hospital, and she refused to see him. He insisted, and the doctors finally took him to the bedside. She turned her head away, refusing even to speak to him. As he left the institution he forbade the doctors to let any one else talk to her, and they respected his wish.

Later in the evening her mother, who declined to tell her name, said that she knew of no reason for the act. Mrs. Perry, she said, went out for a walk at 10 o'clock in the morning, as was her usual custom, and the next thing she heard was that she was in the hospital. She denied with great vigor that Perry was in the house, and said he would not come home that night. It was said at a late hour that Mrs. Perry had as yet shown no symptoms of pneumonia, or even of a cold, and that her recovery was assured.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW.

Special Meeting Held in Grace Church Addressed by Bishop Potter and Others.

In celebration of St. Andrew's Day a special meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was held last evening in Grace Church, corner of Broadway and Tenth Street, the body of the building being more than half filled. After prayers a short address was made by Bishop Henry C. Potter on "The Call to Private Prayer." Bishop Potter made an earnest plea for more conscientious individual work and eulogized the Brotherhood of St. Andrew for what it had already accomplished.

He was followed by the Rev. George R. Van De Water, rector of St. Andrew's Parish. Dr. Van De Water said in part: "The Church has been too largely influenced by the idea that going to church is a mere matter of choice. No parent would allow his child to say 'I do not want to go to school,' but when a child says, 'I do not want to go to church,' we consider that that is sufficient cause to keep it at home. "Now the proper training of children should teach them that going to church is a matter of duty just as much as going to school is a duty. Some say that less people attend church now than ever before, although I doubt it. I doubt, for instance, if twenty-five years ago on a Saturday night in New York we could secure so good an attendance as this is."

The Rev. William R. Huntington, rector of Grace Church, next spoke briefly on "The Call to Active Service." He said in part: "You probably came here to-night expecting I would say a lot of the kind of matter we publish in the year books—how to organize. But I am sick and tired of attempts to organize men to do what is called church work, and few have had more experience in it than I have. The men are engaged in the earning of their living, but there are not too many men to-day engaged in the keeping of the commandments. "We do not get down below the surface. I suppose some of you have read the account of the submarine boat that went down the other day and staid down fifteen hours, and when it came up the crew were surprised to see a storm raging that they had known nothing of. That shows the difference between the things on the surface and the things below the surface. What we need to do is to get below the surface in religion."

DELUGE ON UPPER BROADWAY.

Water Spouted Twenty Feet from Broken Street Main.

Broadway, between Seventy-fourth and Seventy-fifth Streets, was deluged yesterday afternoon by water that spouted twenty feet in the air from a broken street fire hydrant. It is believed that the pressure in the main was too great for the hydrant, which may have been defective.

The water poured into the street for three hours before it could be shut off, and by that time so much water had run into the cellar of the Avonmore apartment house, at 2,131 Broadway, that the fires under the boilers had been put out. The Fire Department was notified at last, and city employes shut off the water. The damage was not great to the Avonmore apartments.
